

Encourage a Fighting Spirit with the Doner Designs Army Guitar

Description

The Doner Designs “Fight Back” military theme guitars and basses were developed to encourage kids who are fighting life-threatening illnesses as well as the friends and family who support them. These guitars are fully functional and constructed with premium hardware and electronics sure to please any musician, but are also works of art suitable for display for the inspiration of anyone. For new or aspiring players, a headphone amplifier and self-study book are included.

The Army guitar is based on Leo Fender’s famous Stratocaster guitar. The body and neck come from a value-priced guitar from Fender’s import line. Doner Designs then completely refinished and rebuilt the guitar by replacing all of the pickups, hardware and electronics with premium aftermarket components.

Three Seymour Duncan pickups with 5-way pickup selector and three separate coil-tap switches offer a vast array of tonal options. A bridge-on toggle switch adds two additional pickup combinations not possible with a standard 5-way switch. Further tone flexibility is provided by passive (no battery needed) master bass and treble controls. The Wilkinson tremolo and locking tuners together enhance playability and increase sustain.

Military styling points include olive drab paint, camouflage pickguard & backplate, large lag bolts, a painted-on white invasion star and large stencil lettering. In addition, a red covered military toggle switch along with 9 dials and mini switches give the control panel a cockpit-like feel.

Though not a distressed finish per se, the Army Guitar has something of an industrial appearance to it. It’s supposed to look like a tank. A matte finish clear lacquer helps protect the finish and contributes to the rugged army equipment look. Two backplate options are included for easy user customization.
